MEA reiterates its position that GWU actions at Enemalta should stop

In reply to the GWU's statement about the industrial actions currently underway at Enemalta, the Malta Employers' Association emphasized that it has always declared itself against any form of discrimination, irrespective of who does it and where it occurs. If the union is alleging that there have been discriminatory practices at Enemalta, then such allegations should be proven, and industrial action should only be resorted to if and after the employer in question refuses to make matters right. Up to this point the allegations have not been proven.

Due to the industrial action, there are many companies who are innocent third parties but who are negatively impacted. It is for this reason that MEA reiterates its stand for all actions to be suspended until the said allegations are confirmed or otherwise by the competent authorities.
