According to the press conference delivered by Prof. Charmaine Gauci, persons living with vulnerable persons and persons above 65 years can still go out to work unless they can telework, and they do not qualify for quarantine leave. This goes against what was communicated yesterday during the address by the Minister for Health, but we stick with the latest version. We will keep you updated.